Import and Export Credit

Since it was first established in 1989, JunHe has grown to become one of China's premier law firms. JunHe excels in the area of cross-border legal services and supports China's import and export boom of the last few decades. During this period of phenomenal economic growth, banks in China have provided the necessary credit to facilitate the export of Chinese goods and services, including high speed rail, highways and other infrastructure projects, and the importation of foreign state-of-the-art technologies and equipment, such as airplanes and vessels. In order to provide the highest level of professional cross-border financing services, JunHe is committed to building alliances with strong partners, and continues to support cooperative international efforts to help bridge cultural differences between China and foreign countries, building mutual understanding and knowledge. Our clients benefit from the scope and scale of JunHe's international experience and our high quality, cross-border legal service.

Our Team

JunHe's award-winning Banking and Finance team has extensive expertise in import and export credit, and provides top-tier legal services to our banking clients. JunHe offers bilingual capability and detailed knowledge across numerous industries.
