Onshore Bonds

After many years of development, China has gradually formed a bond system centering on the exchange markets and the interbank market. Flexible and diversified onshore bonds have become an important channel for direct financing by governments, financial institutions and enterprises. In particular, the introduction of “bond connect” has further improved the liquidity and openness of the China bond market. Compared with credit financing, bond financing has more advantages in aspects such as high financing amounts, long term, interest rate liberalization and more flexibility in fund usage.

JunHe has a team of attorneys with extensive knowledge and experience in the fields of onshore bond laws and industry, who do not only have first class legal service skills, but also have industry knowledge and good business awareness. The team’s core attorneys have for many years been named as outstanding attorneys in the capital market (bond and equity) of mainland China by well-known world business attorney rating agencies, such as Chambers Asia Pacific, The Asia Pacific Legal, Asia Law & Practice, and International Financing Review. JunHe can provide comprehensive legal services for the issuers and underwriters in the issue of financial bonds and capital bonds by financial institutions in the inter-bank bond market. They are also experienced in the issue by non-financial enterprises with registration of medium-term notes, short-term financing bonds, Super & Short-term Commercial Paper (SCP) and asset-backed bills, as well as the issue by enterprises of corporate bonds and asset-backed securities at exchange market.

JunHe’s clients in its onshore bond practice cover policy banks, commercial banks, state-owned enterprises under the central government, local state-owned enterprises, listed companies and various private enterprises. These industry sectors include banking, energy, petrochemicals, building, infrastructure, real estate, internet, and investments. JunHe has participated in several onshore bond issue projects of milestone significance and is highly recognized in the market.

JunHe can provide the following major legal services in onshore bond projects:

- Participate in the discussion about the project application and issue scheme;
- Give legal advice and assist the issuer to draft internal resolutions, as well as review the relevant documents and agreements related to the project;
- Review the project application documents for approval, registration or filing with the regulatory authorities, and give legal advice and opinions;
- Conduct legal due diligence investigation on the issuer and its main domestic subsidiaries;
- Issue legal opinions as required by the Chinese laws and regulations and the regulatory authorities, and assist in the reply of questions from the regulatory authorities;
- Witness the bond issue process, and issue legal opinions accordingly.

JunHe, founded in Beijing in 1989, is one of the first private partnership law firms in China. Since its establishment, JunHe has grown to be a large and recognized Chinese law firm. The firm has fourteen offices around the world and a team comprised of more than a thousand professionals.

(JunHe) Leverages its solid finance law expertise and collaboration across departments to provide a one-stop service.
