Life Sciences and Healthcare

At JunHe, we have been counseling domestic and foreign companies on their investments in the life sciences and healthcare sector in China since the 1990s. After thirty years of practice, JunHe is one of the few full-service law firms in China with a proven track record in this sector with expertise in the entire life cycle of medical products and services. We render quality services to all stakeholders in the industry. Our expertise and extensive experience in the sector are illustrated by the pioneering deals we have helped our valued clients achieve.

Our Team

Our life sciences and healthcare practice group comprises professionals from multidisciplinary practices, including dozens of partners and approximately 100 associates. Our life sciences and healthcare team of lawyers has vast experience in advising clients in the areas of mergers and acquisitions, capital markets, private equity/venture capital, intellectual property, compliance and dispute resolution. They have been involved in many high profile transactions and have represented the most active clients in the life sciences and healthcare sectors, offering them value-added, creative and practical legal solutions.

We offer our clients legal capabilities and services across the whole industry chain of pharmaceutical products, including:

- Drug discovery and patent application;
- Drug-diagnostic and medical device co-development;
- Preclinical research services;
- Design, management, filing and technical cooperation of clinical trial plans;
- IP licensing and transfer in every stage of drug and medical device development;
- Drug and medical device registration and compliance consulting;
- Commercialization, manufacturing, marketing, sale and distribution of drugs and medical devices;
- Lifecycle compliance consulting for pharmaceuticals and medical devices;
- Drug and medical device adverse events and recalls, civil claims by patients and clinical trial participants; and
- Government investigations, administrative penalties and dispute resolution services.

We advise life sciences and healthcare companies regarding issues in every stage of the life cycle, including:

- Incubation and acceleration of new enterprises and products;
- Establishment of, and license applications for various life sciences and healthcare companies;
- Angel investment and seed funding;
- Corporate restructuring, including the restructuring of red-chip structures and the restructuring of dismantled red-chip structures;
